MARCH 31, 1885 NTERESTING SOCIAL QUESTIONS.

The Shall be the First Among the Indies of the Cabinet?---Miss cleveland flestores Low-neck presses at the White House.

The question of who is the first lady of inet line, is already a momentous Miss Catharine Bayard is at present e most prominent young woman in sciety, and one hears her name or its is a great sufferer from neuralgia, and sidon goes out of her own house during winter. As a representative of her Miss Bayard now claims that natron's place in the line of Cabinet nation's pract in the House receptions, and there were many astonished counand there were might when Miss Bayeame down on the President's arm, and came down on the residence arm, and the married ladies followed after her. considered, the Capinet outcers rank ac-ording to the order in which they were established, the State Department coming first, next the Treasury, the War, Navy, to next the literate, and last the Dertment of Justice. The wives of these partment of austice. The saves of these officers rank accordingly, but by all the sanous of etigoette and propriety an unnous of enquerie and property an ung can hardly precede married ladies of me rank as her mother.

scretary Bayard made the point that should have his mother's what points Mrs. Manning, heatt, Mrs. Whitney, and Mrs. off make in return remain to be It is hardly possible that Mrs. ing whose social ambition was the befreasons for her husband's acceptare of a Cabinet post, enjoys going in by the unmarried daughter of one of Mrs. Endicott, who has bluest blood and the oldest name in Jassachusetts, with wealth and the thest social position, will hardly stand realth and social ambition, will accept situation. These three ladies, who e already marked out as the leaders of ficial society, are expected to assert mselves on the next occasion, and their followers and disinterested people are waiting to see how this first Cabinet ion of the female side will be

For the first time since many could remember, the decollete corsage appeared the line of Cabinet ladies receiving with the President at an evening recep tion. Mrs. Hayes's disapproval of that syle of dress was so well known that few but foreigners went to the White House with uncovered shoulders, and the ladies of the last Cabinet never wore anything at high gowns. Miss Cleveland, Miss Bayard, and Mrs. Whitney were in full evening dress the other night, with dresses cut low and sleeveless.

DECOLLETTE DRESS.

Philadelphia Society for the Prevention of Low Neck and Short Sleeves.

A Philadelphia correspondent writes as The Society for the extirpation of the Decellette Dress.' Some of the most beautiful and fashionable women of town an members of it. The proximate cause of its coming into being was the bringing of a suit for damages by a young woman whose nerves were shocked by her ejecion from a dancing-hall at a large masperade ball for the alleged reason that her dress was cut too low. The declared that woman her gown was made 80ording to the mode, it was not cut lower than those worn at fashionable assembles. It is not surprising that the cheeks of Philadelphia's fair and high-bred daughters should burn when they saw this irreverent fling staring them in the d fashion promptly made up their minds that each member of the society would use to wear dresses that would come uis up to the chin, and encourage other mionable women to do likewise. The ster second thought, however, resulted a sme important modifications. It was speed that a triangular or heart-shaped at in front would be sufficiently modest i not made too long, and might be allowed. It was held also, that i a lady had a splendid diamond or pearl necklace that she desplendid sited to wear, her corsage might be cut square, if well filled in with lace. A long discussion arose on the question of allowmg simple shoulder-straps if the arms were enveloped in twenty-button kid gioves. The discussion, which waxed vehement, and almost personal, ended in the defeat of the shoulder-strap advocates by a vote of twelve to nine, and it was resolved that sleeves should never stop short of the elbow. Two of the shoulderstrap ladies immediately withdrew from

Silk and Wool Underclothing.

An exchange treating upon "wool and silk underclothing," says: "An essential point in respect to health, and as a preventive of disease, is to keep warm in the middle of the front of the belly, as well to sufficiently protect the spinal country and this we contend can most efficiently be parformed by wool or silk Silk, we think, has the adtantage by affording electrical conditions conducive to a strong, regular and equal circulation of blood to the extremities, as well as to all parts of the body. Experi-sate has demonstrated that silk underdothing will in some cases cure, and natigate, the pains of theumatism, heuralgia, and nervous diseases of many kinds, while even in febrile diseases it events an influence that is very beneficial giving increased vigor to the patient. ersons wearing silk underclothing are ess suspeptible to climatic changes, and are more free from colds than even those wearing garments made of wool. Medical science has also shown in numerous stances that silk resists the spread of contagions diseases that are rapidly and darmingly reproduced wherever the takes up and carries the offensive odors emanating from the sick cham-

How We Reported.

A New York firm applied to Abraham Lincoln, some years before he be-President, as to the finstanding of some of his ors. Mr. Lincoln replied replied as follows: "Yours of the 10th instant received. I am well acquainted with Mr. and know his circumstances. First of all, he has a wife and baby; tosether they ought to be worth $50,000 to any man. Secondly, he has an office in which there is a table worth $1.50, and which will bear looking into. Respect-

WILL SPARE THE PRINCE.

The Plot of the Endical Dynamiters Suppressed for Various Ecasons. London, March 30.-In an interview with a prominent dynamiter, telegraphed from Paris, he is reported to have said: "Let it suffice to say that our party is wakeful and ready to act with vigor whenever the time occurs, and according to the necessity of the occasion.

"Yes, it is true that we amnestied the "Because he is a Free Mason?" the question of the ranking woman in the land, or the ranking woman in the hefore making hefore hefo before replying to this question, and then said: "The real reason for issuing that manifesto has hitherto been secret; but I don't believe it can do any barm to reveal the most one hears her name or its string, and one hears her name or its string, and one hears her name or its it now. Here is the whole story: When the Prince's visit to Ireland was first mooted, it caused an impose of the prince of the pr among Republican agitators. Extremists everywhere were wild, and the hot-blooded fanatics in our party were amazed at the audacity of the Prince in proposing to walk into the stronghold of his enemies. A few of the most reckless agitators afterward formed an Inner Circle to arrange for the removal of the Prince while in Dublin. Secret applications were and the married makes where precedence is at all ceremonies where precedence is and two wealthy Invincibles made liberal responses. An official in David who had long been rendering valuable aid by procuring various secret police circu-lars, offered to deposit a few bombs where they would be most effective. He said be could and would deposit as many bombs as might be necessary, if they were made with time fuses so that they might be exploded while the Prince of Wales was holding his levee at the castle. This offer was gratefully accepted. One dozen bombs with clockwork attachments were manufactered without difficulty. The Inner Circle was chuckling over the promised success of their plot, and anticipated a grander display of pyrotechnics than had been seen since the late Czar was assisted into Heaven. Just at this time report of the plot reached the foremost leaders of the agitators. They promptly denounced the plot and threatened to resign and repudiate the dynamiters altogether if such an imprudent and unfruitful measure should be attempted. Λ he monalous condition of things, nor is the influence of the moderate section expected that Mrs. Whitney, with her proved the stronger and the fatal split in the party was imminent, but proved the stronger, and the plot was abandoned. The circle was dissolved and the manifesto of safety was issued. There are many Free Masons among us, and that furnished a good reasons for the phrasing of the manifesto, but the main fact is that this victory of the moderate agitators is one of the many signs that the idea of political murder is losing

Gathering Florida Sponges.

One of the sights of the Florida reef is the sponger. He is generally a conch from Conchtown, Key West, and devotes his entire time to the business of fishing up the repulsive objects called sponges. This is done chiefly with hook or spears, the boats drifting along until a sponge is sighted, when it is hooked or speared and jerked from its stronghold upon the bottom. When the water is too deep for the hooking process the sponger goes overboard and dives to the sponge, by main force tearing it from the bottom. The sponges taken from this section are not delicate toilet sponges, being a different grade and only used for coarse work. They grow to a large size, sometimes ollows to the Chicago Times: "There measuring three feet across and two high, has been formed a society here called and when active present anything but an attractive appearance. A good healthy sponge looks as it comes to the surface like a great beef's liver, and the odor is spongy—no other word describes it.

When a load of these aromatic flowers of the ocean is secured, they are taken down to Key West, or may be cured on some of the keys. This consists in allowing them to remain in the sun until thoroughly decayed, and then treating them to repeated rinsings, until the ani mal matter is entirely removed. They are then placed in the sun to bleach, and in this stage are seen covering the fences in Conchtown. Later they are subjected to several processes, one of which in some cases is sanding. This is more common in the toilet sponge from the Mediterranean. Shake one and you will find that quite a deposit of fine sand escapes. This was not eaten or absorbed by the sponges when alive, as you might suppose, but is a process by which the weight of the sponge is increased, and as they sell by the pound, the object is evident.

The tricks that the guileless sponge dealer is not up to are not worth chronicling. Some time ago a young man was sent to a sponge locality to buy sponges for a firm who was going to manufacture a new article that required large quantities, and it was found that the young man paid as much for water and coral rock as he did for sponge.

Better sponges are found in the Baha-mas than on the Florida reef, and the business, though in the hands of a few, is a valuable one. The majority of people have rather peculiar ideas regarding the sponge. Some think it an insect; others a plant. It is, however, a simple animal composed of many cells, that are arranged in three layers, the middle one secreting the lime or silex, as the case may be, that goes to form the skeleton of the animal -Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Young Albert Victor.

This son of the Prince of Wales has a reputation as a lively lad in his own set over the water. His experiments with red pepper in the Windsor Castle furnace during a certain conference between the Queen and Disraeli have been laughed over by admiring Britishers a half dozen years or so. Here is another paragraph from the royal infant's biography which has not been told in print hitherto. The captain of one of the royal yachts was brought from his cabin to the deck one day by a series of howls that in New York might have passed for an echoing dog show. The old tar was met with a battle scene wherein Albert Victor, whip in hand, was bending over a prostrate young brother and lashing him most "What's the matter?" gasped the cap-

OLD SHOES.

How much a man is like old shoes!
For instance, both a soul may lose;
Both have been tanned; both are made tight
By cobblers; both get left and right;
Both need a mate to be complete,
And both are made to go on feet.
They both need heeling, oft are sold,
And both in time all turn to mould.
With shoes the last is first; with men
The first shall be the last; and when
The shoes wear out they are men dead, too.
They both are trod upon, and both
Will tread on others, nothing loath.
Both have their ties, and both incline
When polished in the world to shine;
And both peg out—and would you choose
To be a man or be his shoes?
